

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Vuzix, the leading video eyewear producer, to attend Tokyo Games Show

Vuzix to participate in Tokyo Games Show held in Tokyo, Japan on September 20 – 23, 2007.

Rochester, NY – September 17th – Vuzix Corporation will attend the 2007 Tokyo Games Show. The event will be held from September 20 - 23, 2007 in Tokyo, Japan at the Makuhari Messe venue. The event is organized by the Computer Entertainment Supplier's Association (CESA). Event agenda and other information is available online at: <http://tgs.cesa.or.jp/english/>

Vuzix will be presenting a number of the newest iWear® brand of Video Eyewear products, including the AV920, VR920, AV230 & IP230. The just released VR920 is the world's first high resolution, 3-D Video Eyewear with head tracking. Gaming enthusiasts can now enter the virtual world of their favorite game.

In addition to show casing its products, Vuzix intends to recruit Japanese game developers to support its new VR920 and 3D Software Developer Kit to maximize the interactive 3D gaming experience of their new and existing software titles as well as 3D video content.

In addition to representatives from Vuzix' Japanese distribution partners, Vuzix is also pleased to announcing the following members of the management team will be in attendance:

- ∞ Paul Travers, CEO and President
- ∞ Grant Russell, Executive VP
- ∞ Wilfred Victoria, Asian Marketing Manager

Please be sure to visit booth number 2-N12 for the opportunity to review the best new gaming technology at the Tokyo Games Show from the leaders in Video Eyewear.
